Burns H. Weston: Remembrance and Celebration of a Life By Timothy Weston, Rebecca Weston

This book is dedicated to the memory of Burns H. Weston, who was a prolific scholar and activist in the field of International Human Rights. It includes remembrances written by activists and scholars in the field with whom Weston worked from the 1950s to the 2010s. It also includes photographs and remembrances written by his family and friends. While this book is a personal document, it also has historical and political relevance, insofar as it represents one man's use of the law to champion the cause of human rights, justice and environmental survival through crucial moments in the 20th and 21st Centuries.
