Editorial Review

About the Author

Claine Keily is a poet who has written a vast array of texts over a period of thirty years. The styles of her work cover the forms of poetic prose, literary gothic fiction to confessional poetry. She is influenced by the Gothic Romantic writers, the Surrealists and Post Structuralist writers, such as Helen Cixous and Luce Irigaray. She has several degrees from the University of Sydney. Her Masters Degree focused on the works of Helen Cixous and Luce Irigaray, and posited an argument for/ around the necessity for complexity in writing. Extracts of her longer works have been published, by a range of publishers, over the last fifteen years. Her primary publisher is Dust Jacket Press in Colorado. This press produces an online publication called 'Standards'. A number of extracts from her novels and novellas, have been published by this press. More recently she has had poems published in Sotto, The Wonder Book of Poetry, Notes for the Translators, The Moon is Swimming Naked, and Cuttings. She travels throughout Australia conducting readings of her poetic pieces. More recently she undertook a series of poetry readings over a six month period in Oxford and Paris. Claine convenes poetry reading events at The Happy Yess in Darwin, and she often undertakes poetry performance works at these events. She currently has a residency as a 'Cafe Poet' at Berkelouw Bookshop in Paddington, Sydney. This residency was awarded to her by Australian Poetry. Claine co-edited a limited edition literary journal titled 'Viola Tusk' for a period of seven years. She also produced deluxe artist books of her early writings. Claine illustrated these works with original prints from etched plates. Both Viola Tusk, and her deluxe artist books, form part of the rare books collection at The University of Sydney Library, The New South Wales State Library, The National Library of Australia, and The National Defence Force Library of Australia. Zeb Olsen is a writer, musician, visual artist and mother living in the Blue Mountains of NSW.
